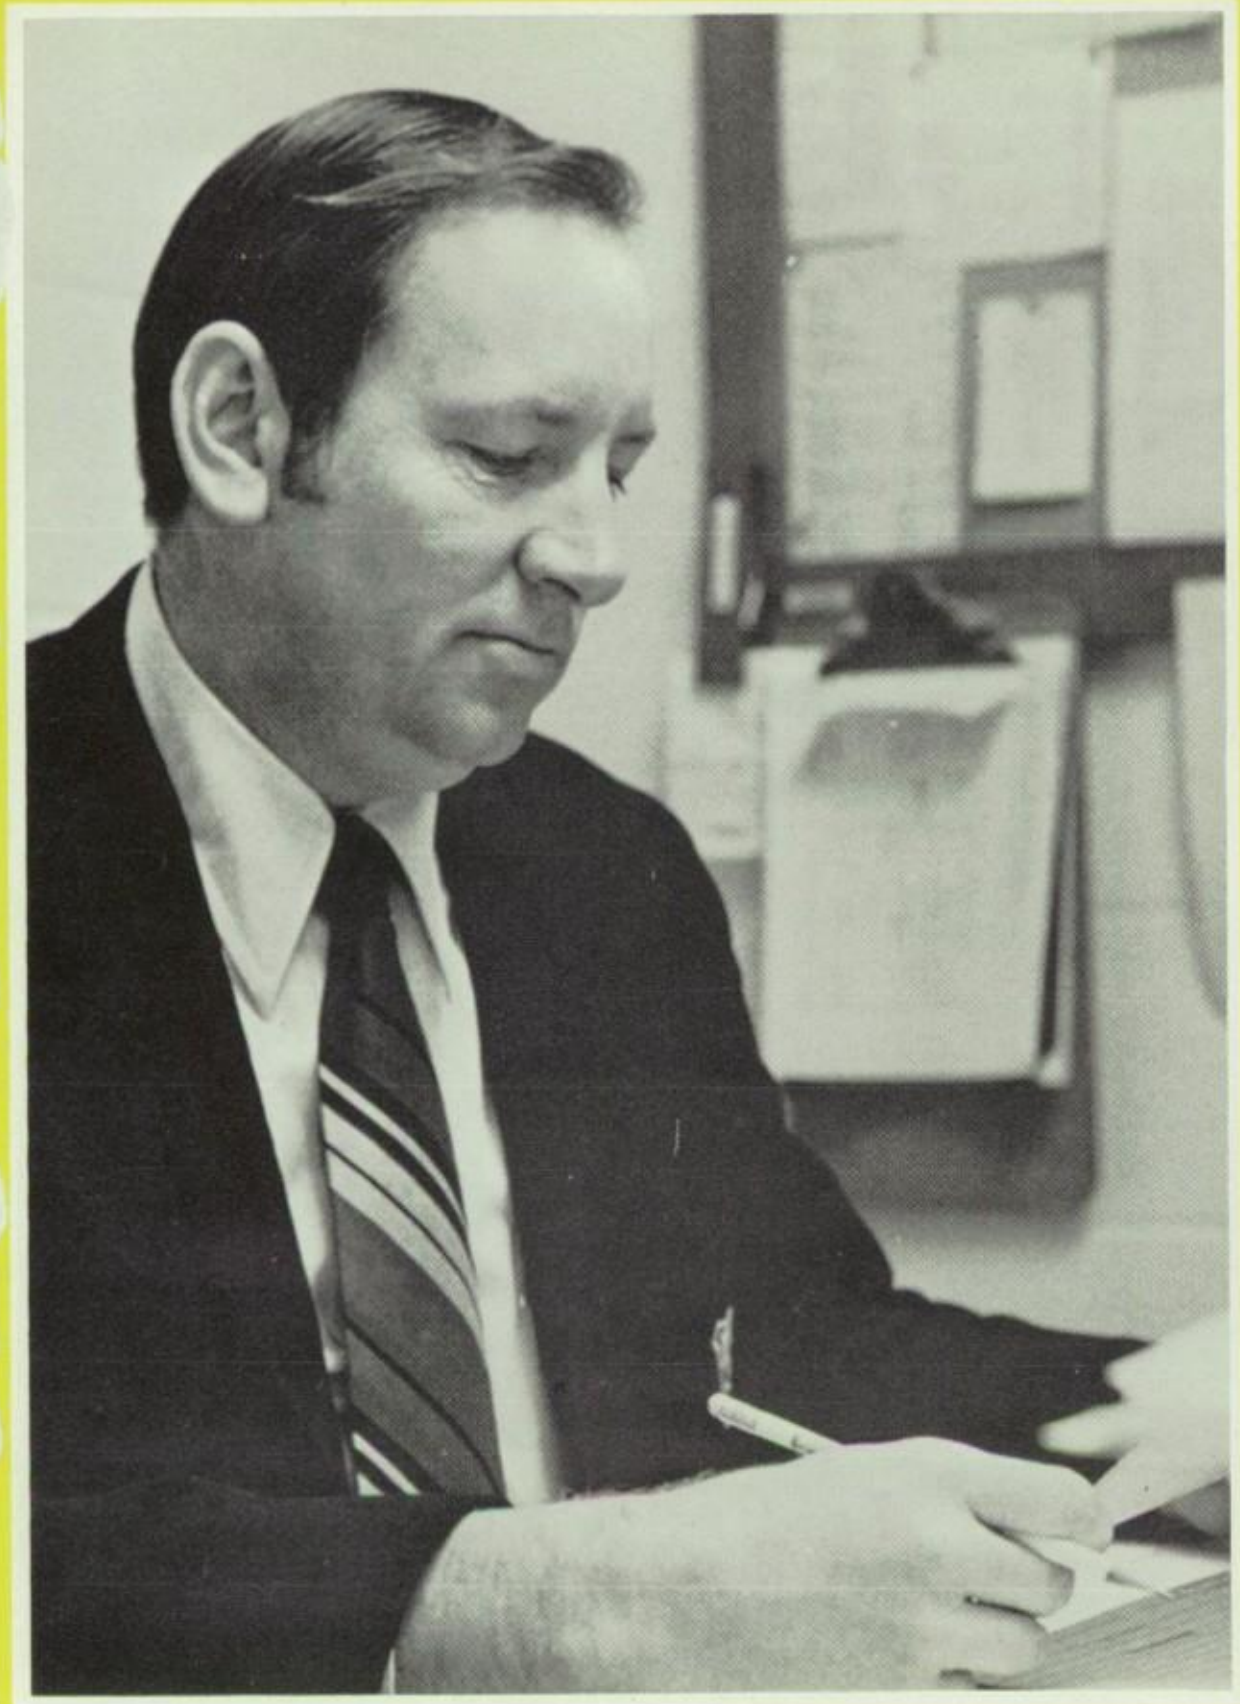
KENTON RIDGE

ENROLLMENT - 530

VOLUME XXV SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

In Recognition . . .



. . . of Roger Woodworth. The Annual Staff is pleased and proud to dedicate the 1977 PILOT to this 1953 graduate of Northeastern who returned to his alma mater in 1958 to teach, coach and eventually supervise the athletic department. In his years at NE, Mr. Woodworth has instructed health, physical education and biology and has held football and basketball coaching positions. Currently serving as Athletic Director, Mr. Woodworth's duties include scheduling sports events, arranging for team bus transportation, hiring officials and maintaining the sports facilities and equipment. He is also responsible for all news coverage of the athletic events and the presentation of trophies and awards. Although his job is far from easy, he always manages to run things smoothly. In his many years at Northeastern, Mr. Woodworth has gained the respect and admiration of each and every person at the school. We, the students, appreciate your dependability, patience and dedication, so Mr. Woodworth, this one's for you.

Frustration . . .

Perplexity, and

Indecision,

. . . the trademarks of change and the actual experiences of Northeastern and Kenton Ridge students. They arrived at the newly renovated NE building to discover strange new halls, classrooms, lockers and lots of unfamiliar faces. Freshmen were not alone in their confusion as upperclassmen also struggled to locate homerooms and remember their locker combinations. Groups and clubs discovered their funds whould be cut in half, so frantic fund-raising began. Students and boosters were asked to buy anything from popcorn and candy bars to poinsettias and trees. The school was engulfed in an aura of instability and uncertainty. No one could foresee what tomorrow would bring and the "big split" loomed in the corners of every students mind.

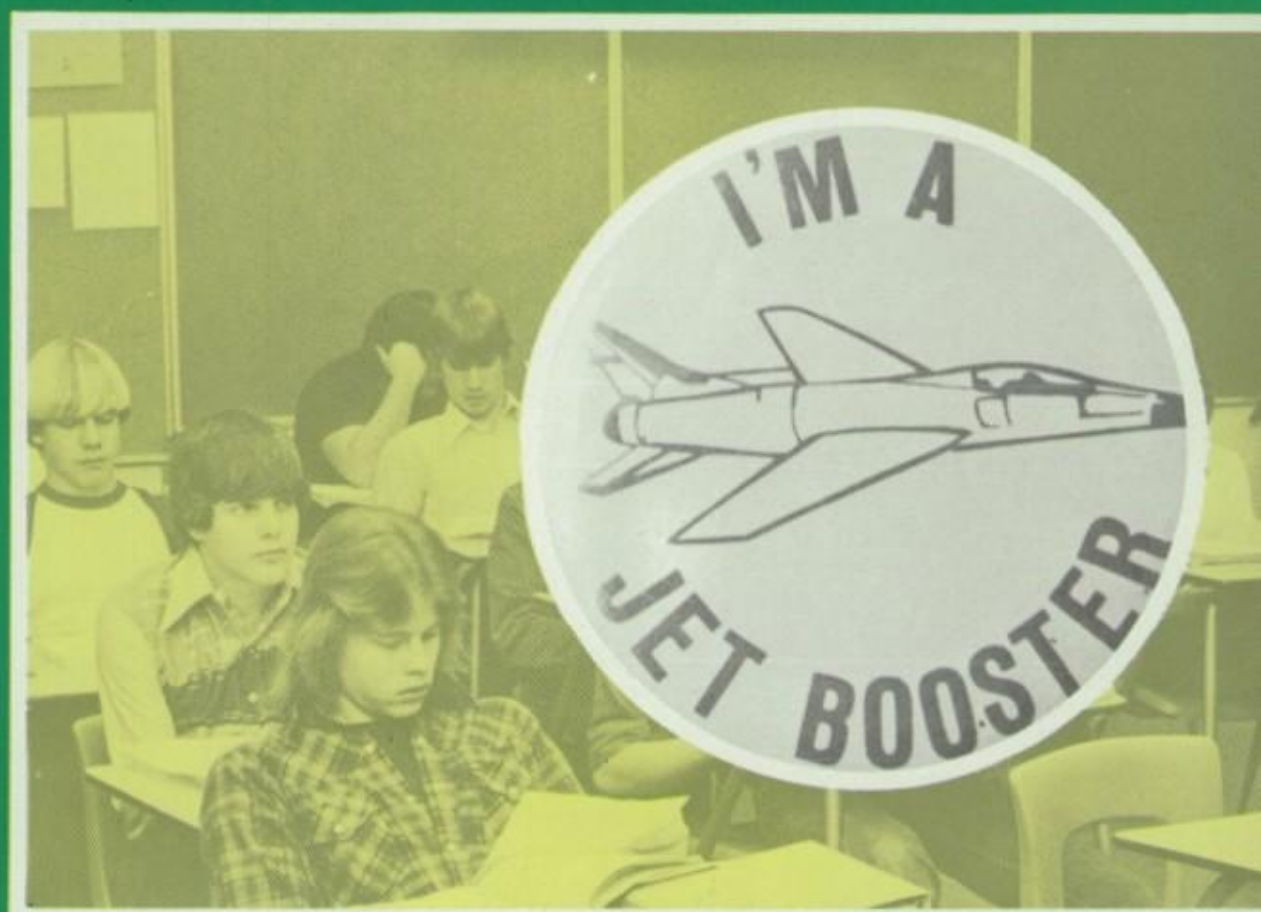
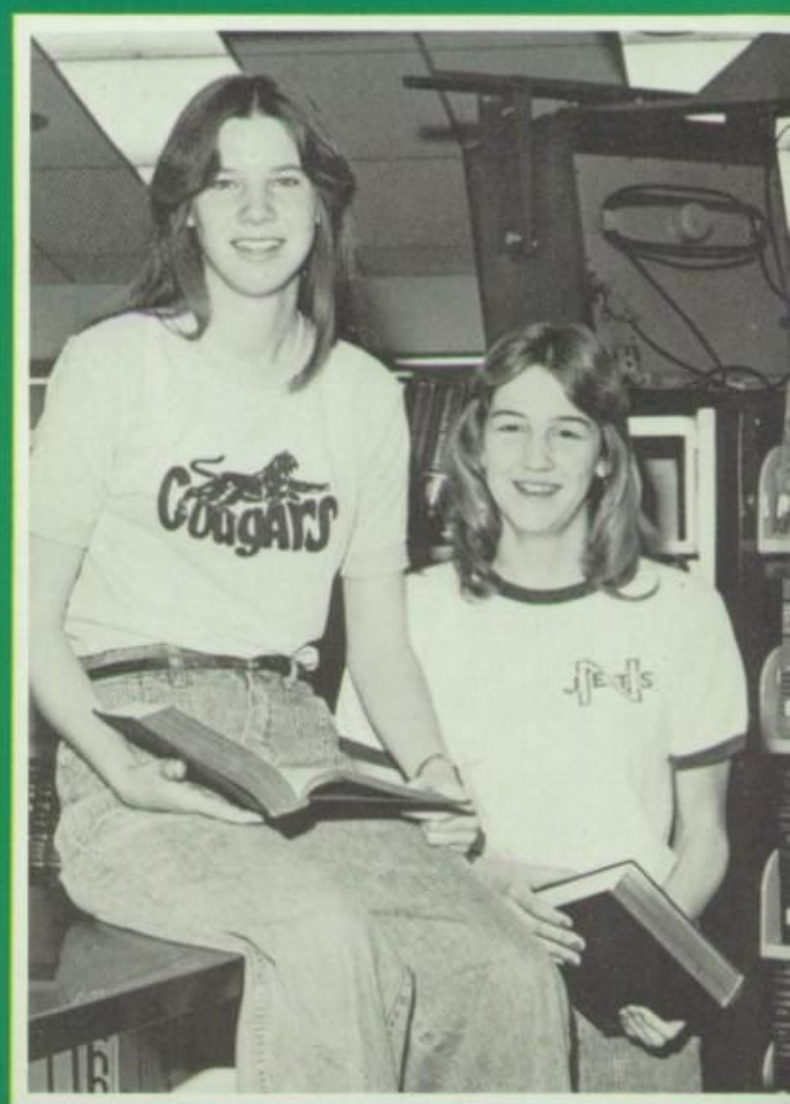
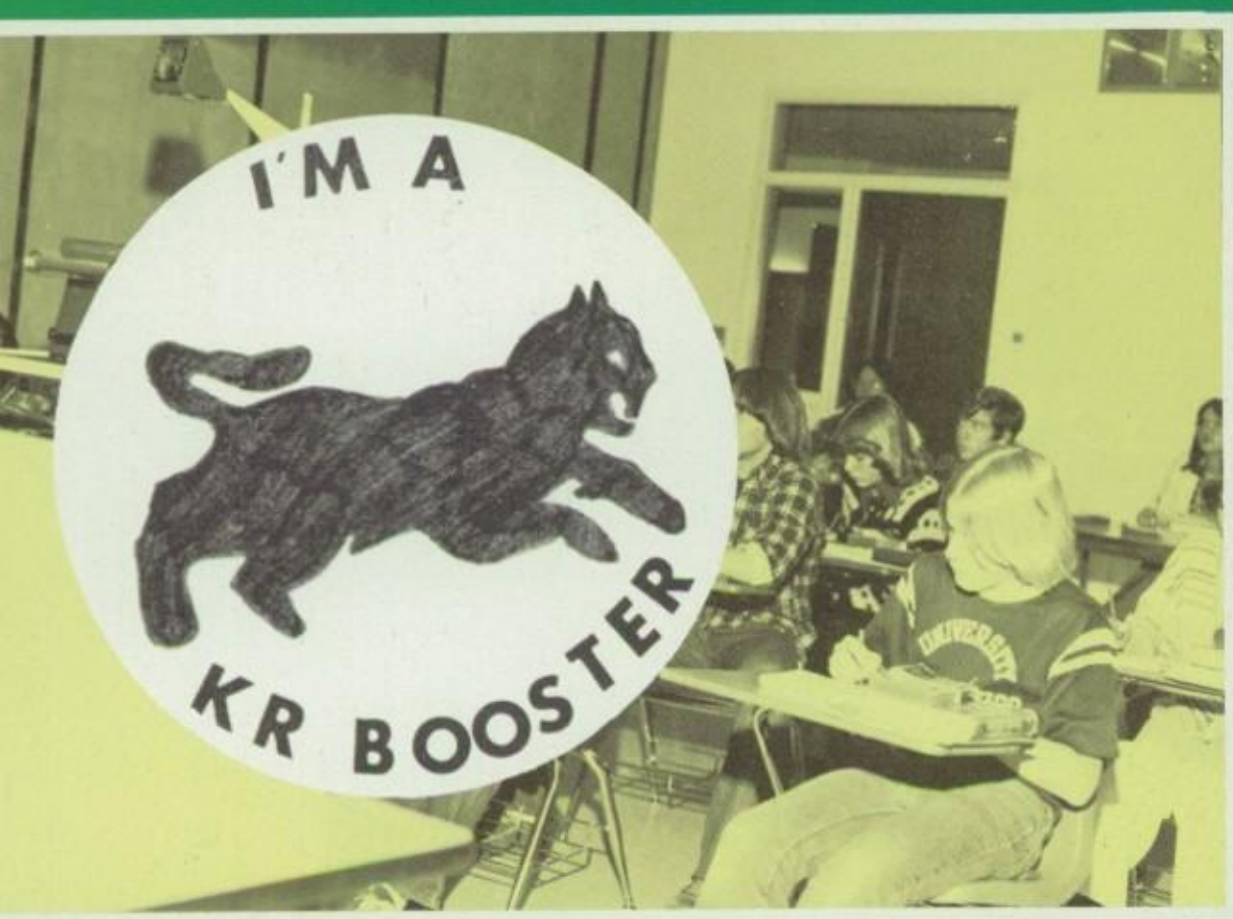
When . . .

The Day Approached

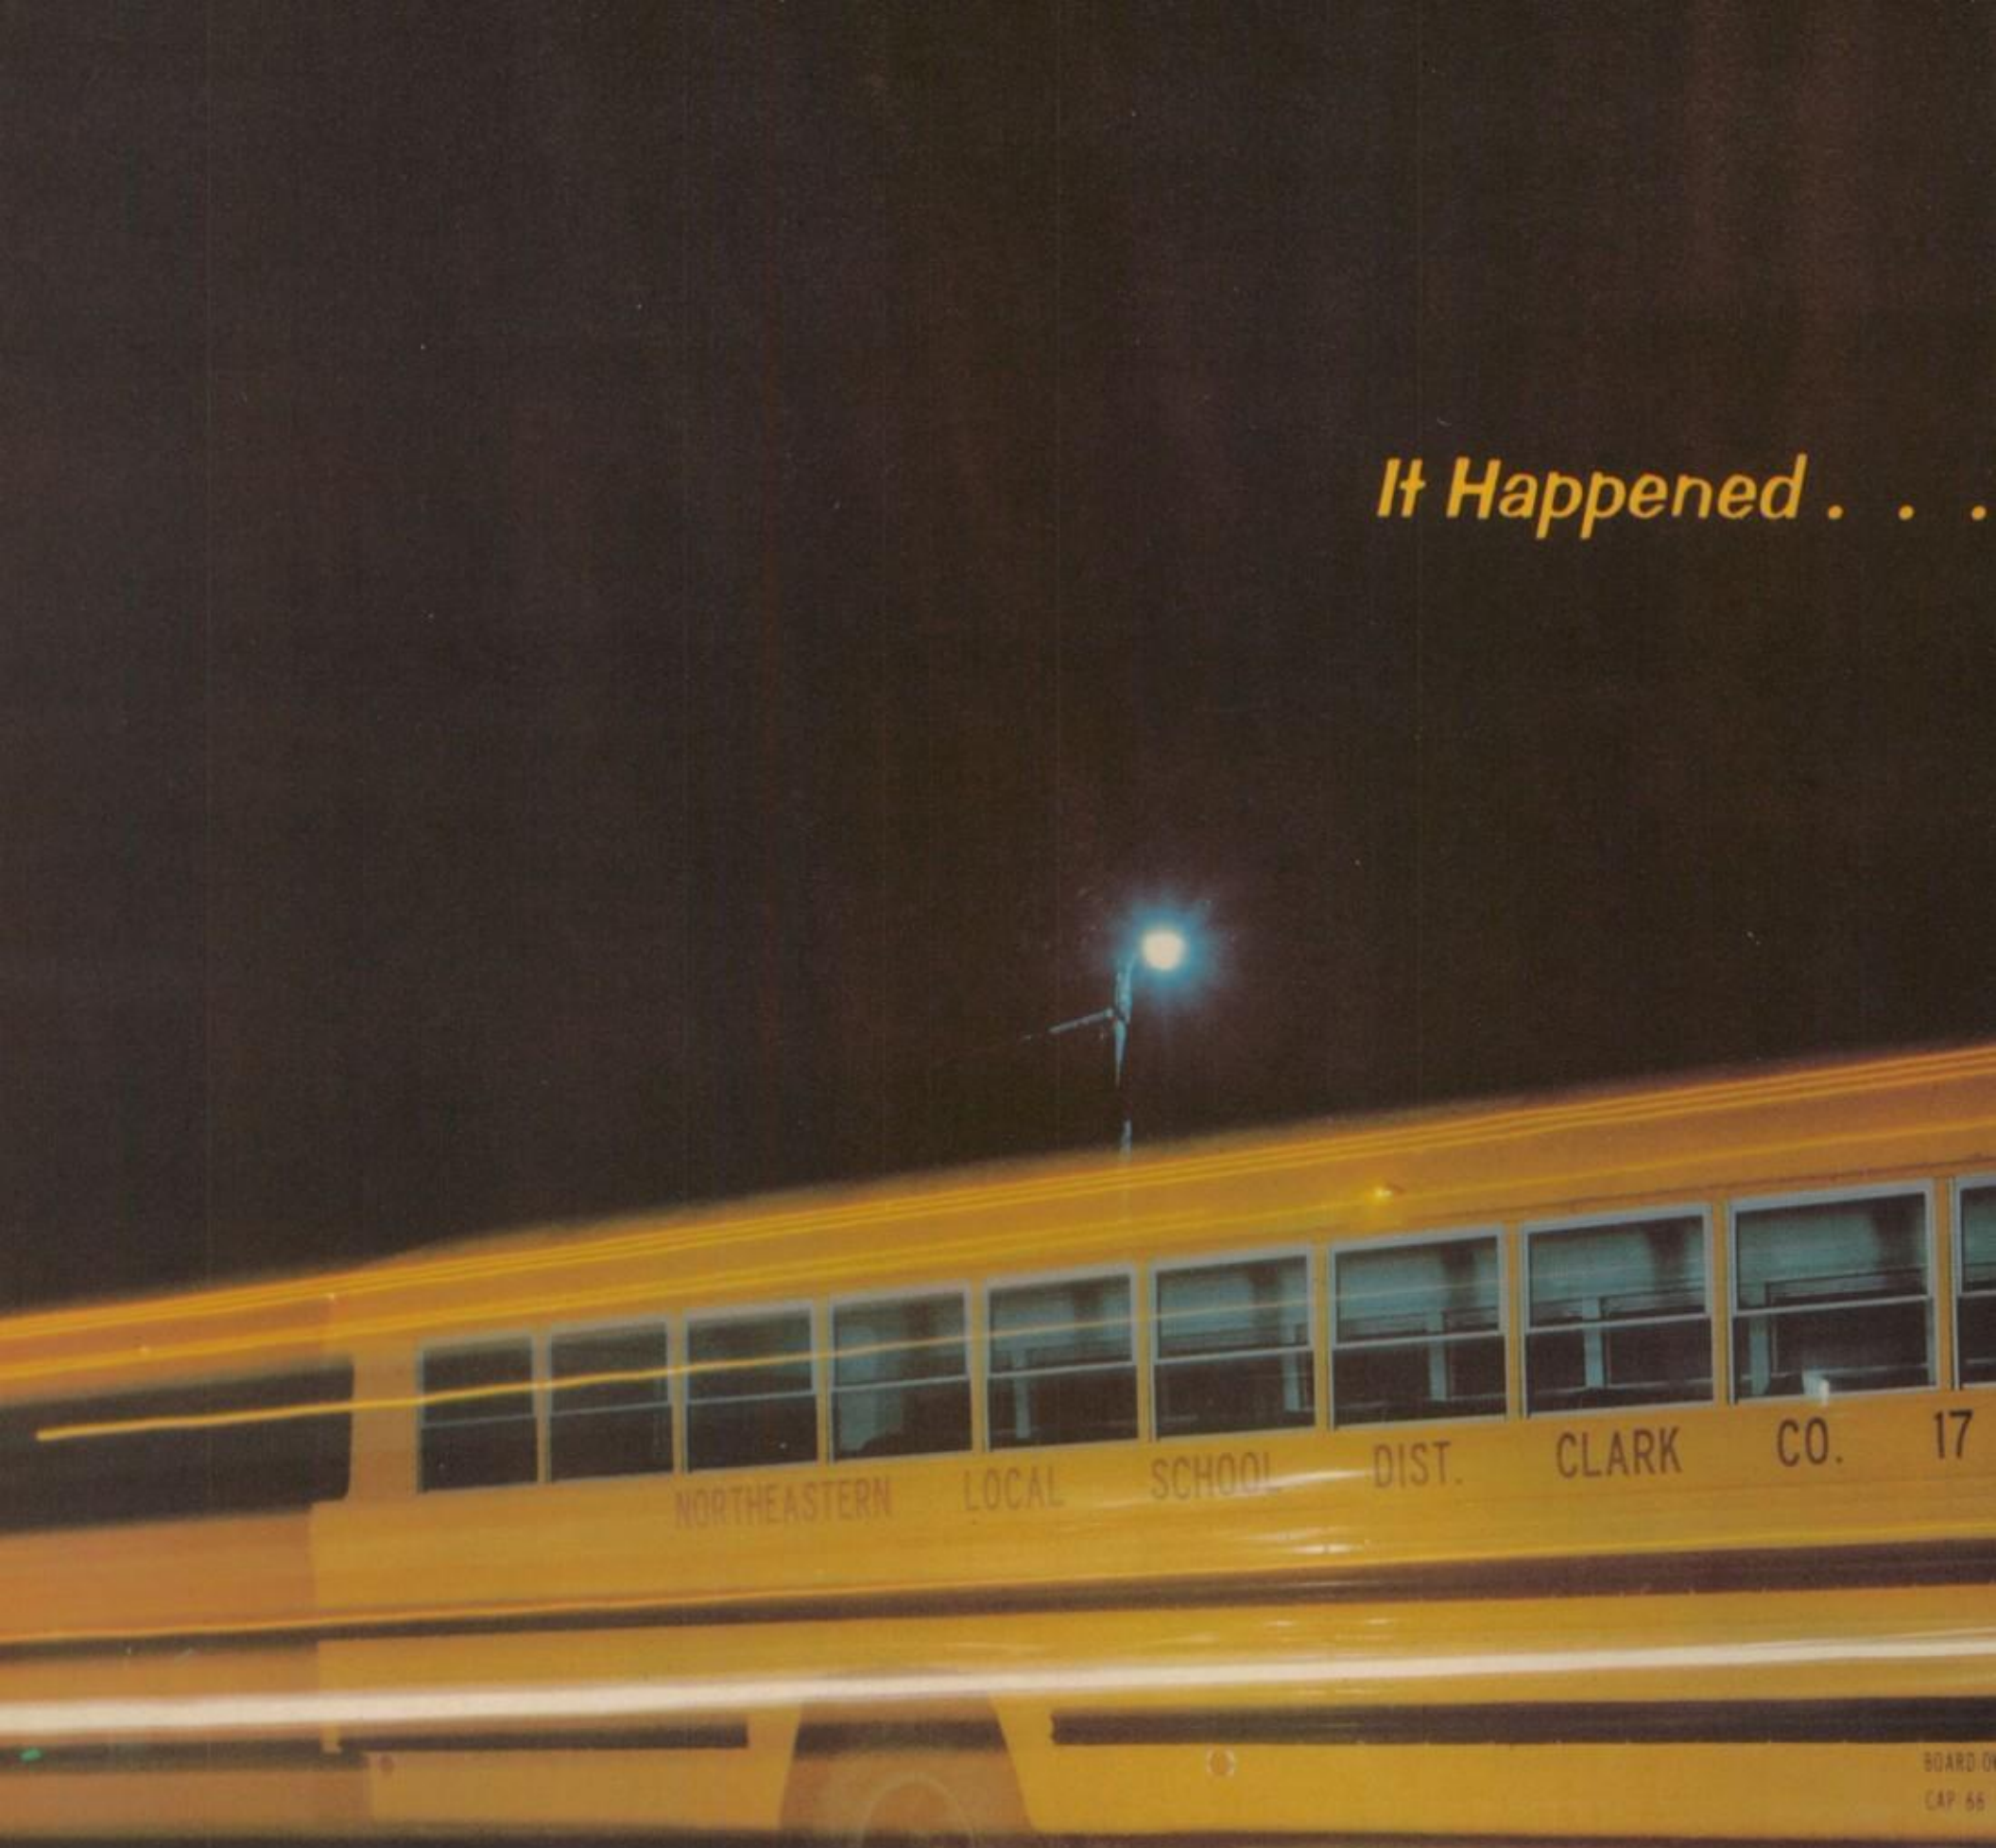




. . . Kenton Ridge was no longer merely an idea formulating in the architect's thoughts. It was brick, glass and concrete - it was for real. T-shirts, gym bags and jackets bearing the Cougars' brown and gold began appearing throughout the school, Although the physical separation was still in the future, a gradual dividing of ideas, loyalty and extra-curricular activities was taking place. The Jets were still united, but the soon-to-be Cougars realized that this was it - today a Jet, tomorrow a Cougar. The coherent framework of Northeaster High School was dividing into two opposite, but equal parts.



It Happened . . .



. . . on January 24, 1977, Kenton Ridge opened its doors and a new chapter in education's history unfolded for Northeastern schools. The abrupt change of scenery and the freezing weather, which closed both high schools temporarily, combined to produce a new wave of anticipation and excitement. Split sessions became a thing of the past and for the first time in seven long years, the Northeastern district reverted to a full-day schedule. New experiences for us, normally taken for granted in other high schools, included regular lunch periods, study halls, intramural sports and after school, rather than evening meetings and practices. The anxiously awaited, occasionally dreaded changes had arrived and as each day progressed they became a part of the past.

Combined Homecoming Is Memorable Event

"Then n' Now" was the theme of the combined Northeastern-Kenton Ridge Homecoming. In celebrating Homecoming Week, students began the event by dressing up in the fifty-ish style of long skirts, straight-legged pants and bobby socks, for Fifties Day. Another activity of the BIG WEEK included Poster Day, with prizes awarded to Jim Black Ken Gill and Jerry Tritle for havin the best posters. Enthusiasm wa evident everywhere as the student proudly displayed either the cardi nal and gold of Northeastern or th brown and gold of Kenton Ridge o School Spirit Day. At the footbal game Friday night, the court

"Winter Wonderland"

On the enchanted evening of December 23, couples were gathered in a picturesque "Winter Wonderland." Students from Kenton Ridge and Northeastern along with their dates, enhanced the warm atomosphere of Christmas.

The decor of the spacious commons area was a collage of various trimmings of the joyous season.

To entertain guests, the band, Azure, played many hit songs of both a slow and fast tempo.

Visiting the "North Pole," couples anxiously awaited their turn on Santa Fuller's lap, whispering their hearts desires into his ear. Deciding whether they had been naughty or nice, he awarded each individual with candy. Unfortunately, Santa Fuller was forced to depart as his reindeer began to get restless.

Couples lined along the hallways to enter the area where the memorable pictures were taken. With the help of Oliver's Photography, couples posed in front of the wintery scenery, painted by students prior to the dance.

As the 11 o'clock hour

Cheerleaders Remain Confident

The Varsity Cheerleaders worked with the block to back the Jets through both Victory and defeat. Even during the cold nights at football games, the girls remained peppy. They also stood by the Jets during the trying and difficult basketball season. The Varsity Cheerleaders were continuously amazing spectators with their daring mounts and original cheers.

Having school spirit and enthusiasm, the N.E. Wrestling Cheerleaders demonstrated to all what Jet Pride really is. Putting posters around the school and decorating the players' lockers helped to boost the morale of the grapplers. In showing their appreciation, the wrestlers gave each cheerleader a corsage at the Awards Banquet and in return the girls presented them with a large cake.

J.V.S. Offers Multiple Opportunities

There was a tremendous response from the Northeastern District to the opportunities offered by J.V.S. As the number of students accepted from each school is limited, it is not possible to accept all the numerous applications.

Quite a few of the Northeastern District students choose to attend J.V.S. during their Junior and Senior years. Although the students still have to take the required scholastic courses such as Government, and English, there is a wide range of specialized courses that are available.

The Northeastern District students participate in extra-curricular activities at J.V.S. as well as in the Northeastern District. When they have completed their Senior year they are graduates from the Northeastern District and receive a certificate from J.V.S.

When asked their feelings about J.V.S., they replied, "J.V.S. is a lot better school than we thought. You have a chance to meet new people and specialize in a certain field at the same time."

As Managing Editor of the 77 PILOT, I want to thank each and every section editor and staff member for their much-appreciated help and cooperation. Their patience and dedication were essential in making this year's Annual a success.

I hope these fleeting pages will help to keep the memories of the 1977-78 school year fresh in your minds for years to come.

Annual Staff Keeps Busy

The Annual Staff's busy working season got underway in late August when the advertising campaign began. Staff members visited area businesses to solicit ads which aided in financing the yearbook. Consisting of 11 section editors and 65 members, the Annual Staff spent many after school hours working to arrange pictures, type copy and plan lay-outs. During Christmas vacation, the Taylor Publishing Company representatives conducted a yearbook workshop which the staff attended to learn the skills and techniques necessary to complete the annual. The newly completed yearbook room provided the staff with a quiet and uninterrupted working area. On the days preceding a deadline however, the room buzzed with activity as hurried editors and staffers rushed to finish their assigned pages. Mr. Kranz, the yearbook advisor, invited the PILOT staff and Mr. Willeman, the Kenton Ridge advisor, to his home in June for the traditional steak supper and celebration.

FNA Puts In Busy Year

Probably one of the busiest clubs this year was the Future Nurses of America (FNA). The girls in this club participated in many worthwhile activities. A few of which were a Red Cross First-Aid Course in which the girls learned Cardio-Pulminary Resuscitation and basic first-aid, a tour through the Surgery Unit at Community Hospital, and two bake sales at which they raised over $200. The money earned went towards food baskets for needy families and presents which they delivered to residents at Applin Nursing Home. The money left over will go towards a fire-proofed blanket for the Chemistry Room. The biggest job the girls had was promoting publicity for the March-of-Dimes Walkathon in which many students from Northeastern and Kenton Ridge participated. It took a lot of time and effort but the walkers had fun and a lot of money was raised which made the whole event a big success.

The FNA participated in many activities this year which helped many people. We only hope that they can do as much in future years.

1. FNA OFFICERS: L. to R.: Cheryl Neidhart, Treasurer; Cindy Pendleton, Vice President; Kim Taylor, President; Brenda Ridder, Secretary.

I.M.C. Expands Services

Providing the students with resource materials the I.M.C. is perfect for class assignments. Along with Mrs. Bean are the students who help to provide assistance in the audio-visual department. Mr. Ryan and Mrs. Baugh also have student assistants to help take charge of the library.

The library has been rearranged to make for a more effective, quieter study area.

With the help of Rick Brooks, Laura Harmer and Mike Minnick, the Camera Club along with Chris Butler from Kenton Ridge, assisted the annual staff in taking pictures of the many school activities. To eliminate a pile-up of pictures, the club sold old yearbook pictures during the fall of the year.

Located near the Science room, the newly constructed dark room has helped the camera club in widening their outlook upon photography.

Combined G.A.A. Twice As Strong

Combined of both Northeastern and Kenton Ridge, the G.A.A. had another successful year of projects and activities under Mrs. Rita Terry, Northeastern advisor, and Miss Kathy Hocter, Kenton Ridge advisor.

Although the two schools were divided, the girls' combined efforts in organizing and decorating for a fun-filled Sadie Night.

The Northeastern girls held a Christmas candle sale with prizes awarded to top sellers. The money raised was placed in the Athletic fund to be used for new equipment. The girls also participated in a Thursday afternoon bowling league at Northridge Lanes.

This years money making project for the Kenton Ridge G.A.A. consisted of selling shampoo. Those proceeds were also given to the athletic fund.

The Kenton Ridge girls also participated in a Tuesday morning bowling league at Northridge lanes.

The year was topped off with the combined spring G.A.A. awards assembly. Girls who earned 500 or more total G.A.A. points during the past years were awarded trophies while the "Outstanding Senior Girl Athlete" award for this year was given to Tammy Robinson who was certainly deserving of the award.

This will be the last needed year for a G.A.A. organization since the Girls' Sports will in the future be supported by the Athletic Department.

Spanish Club And Honor Society Enjoy Year

In the fall, the Spanish Club and the Spanish Honor Society held separate bake sales to provide operating funds for the school year.

In the winter the Spanish Club held their annual Christmas party at the home of senior, Laura Emmert. Traditional Mexican food such as tacos, enchiladas and buñuelos were served and piñatas were broken.

Initiation for the Spanish Honor Society for both schools was held in the spring. The ceremonies were followed by a reception attended by

"Sadie" Strikes Again

Sponsored by the G.A.A. the 1977 Sadie Hawkins Dance was held April 2. Creating a new atmosphere, the South Gym proved to be a perfect place for the successful dance.

The music was presented by Lodestar for the third consecutive year.

Along with the music, games such as the wheel barrow race and the diaper race contributed to the

Prom '77 Enjoyed by All

The lights dimmed and the band began to play softly. Hand in hand, the couples rose from their seats. They moved onto the dance floor to create a swirling pattern of color. This scene took place on May 6 at Yannucci's Restaurant, where after long weeks of anticipation and excitement, the 1977 Kenton Ridge-Northeastern prom had begun. It's theme was "Evergreen," the title song from the love story, "A Star is Born," Refreshments were provided and served by Yannucci's. Couples danced across the floor to the music of Bob Gray's Orchestra. Chaperoning the event were many of the school's teachers who enjoyed themselves as much a

The prom this year was unique in that there were two prom courts - one from Kenton Ridge and one from Northeastern. In the middle of the evening, the courts from both schools were introduced and the Kings and Queens were announced. Joyce Neidhart and Jim Huffman were the Royal Couple from Kenton Ridge. By 11 p.m. most of the couples had left the dance and were on their way out to dine in either Springfield, Dayton, or Columbus. From one o'clock to four o'clock, the students and chaperones tried their luck at Northridge Lanes. Saturday afternoon, the couples topped off their weekend at John Bryan State Park in yellow Springs with softball, frisbee throwing, hiking, and eating. Though the prom activities were tiring, they were enjoyed by all who participated and will remembered for years to come.

F.T.A. and Science Club Begin Projects

Future teachers grew from eleven members last year to nineteen this year. Hampered by split sessions, F.T.A. members managed to supply manpower as teachers aides and student tutorers. Some volunteer members made cassette tapes of student reading assignments to assist those with reading difficulties.

Along with the help of Mr. Hayden and Mr. McFadden the Science Club planned many activities, but only 1 was completed. This was taking a tour through Wittenburg University. Unfortunately, the field trip to Sea World was cancelled.

Open Houses Attract Crowds

Many new facilities, including a new high school, have been added to our school district. In order for the public to see what the passing of the bond issue accomplished, two open houses were held this year. The first was at Northeastern High School on December 5, 1976; the second at Kenton Ridge on March 13, 1977.

Special features at Northeastern included speeches given by class presidents, guided tours by the National Honor Society and refreshments furnished by the Future Homemakers of America.

At Kenton Ridge, selected students gave tours throughout the school and refreshments were provided by the Future Homemakers of America.

1. Visitors admire the new stage and auditorium at Kenton Ridge.
2. Pamphlets were made available in the entrance-way.
3. Kim Bishop conducts a tour through the art room.

An annual event, Children's Farm Day joined first grade children from Northridge, South Vienna, Rolling Hills and Catawaba for an exciting adventure.

The 1977 Children's Farm Day was held at the Runyan Farm. Many of the kids tried their luck at milking a dairy cow, while others were astounded to see the little lambs. Other animals at the Runyan Farm were chickens, goats and every farm animal you could imagine.

To top off the day, a hayride was provided for all the kids. The day will be remembered by the little people for a long time.

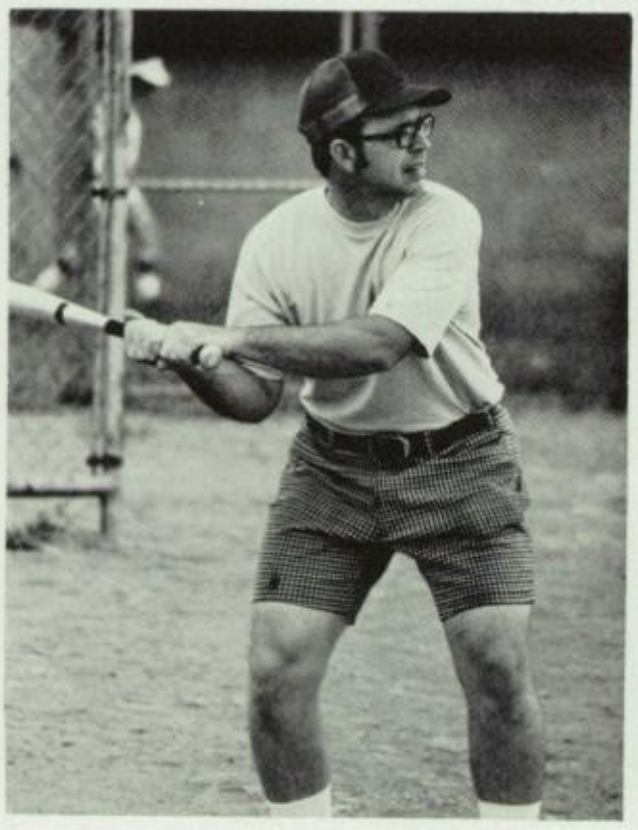
Jet Runners Challenge Faculty

On Tuesday May 24, several members of the Varsity boys' track team challenged a brave group of N. E. faculty to an after-school softball game. Much teasing from both sides precipitated the contest so everyone was determined to win.

Not even a downpour of rain stopped these "dedicated athletes" from their match of skills. Although the teachers proved to be good competition, the Jet runners demonstrated their versatility by earning a 14 to 10 victory.



FHA Girls Never Stop Working

One of both Northeastern and Kenton Ridge's most active groups is the Future Homemakers of America. The two schools not only held their own meeting but also combined a few of their plans together.

The two Clubs went to the Greenon and Clark Districts meetings where we were honored with seats in the district offices. Together they also had a successful Halloween Party and hayride in the fall of the year.

Varsity "N" Sponsors Intramurals

Consisting of approximately 70 guys and 30 girls, this year's coed Varsity "N" was the largest in many years. The club renewed an old tradition by establishing an intramural basketball and volleyball program. The "N" members served as scorekeepers, officials and sometimes participants. In addition, the club members worked during weekend basketball games, selling popcorn and soft drinks.

Prominent among these was an intramural program for both boys and girls, the most popular of which was basketball and volleyball.

To participate, students signed up and captains were chosen to pick their teams. Games were refereed and scores were kept by varsity jocks who participated in organized interscholastic sports.

Jets Grow Stronger In CBC

The Northeastern Jets, after only 3 years in the Central Buckeye Conference, are playing a major role in the field of competition. The Jets had a fine season of 4-5 in 76-77. Their show of determination was upheld through every game even with a long list of injuries. Two returning lettermen were out practically the whole season and other injuries included broken legs, collar bones, and even an appendectomy. Still the Jets showed their growing strength.

The whole year of hard work and grueling practices was summed up by the squad, coaches, and the fan in this year's most exciting game the come from behind defeat of th London Raiders. The Jets down 19- at the half, took over with som terrific passing and never looke back as they soared over the Raider with a final score of 29-25.

In the past two years the Jets have beaten every team in the league, and the 18-13 victory over our long time rival the Shawnee Braves, which we won in the last minutes of the game, was a crowd favorite.

The spirit never ceased as the Jet fans backed their team with great pride and satisfaction during every game.

The 76 season for the Jets was a very improved one and with our fine athletes being split between Northeastern and Kenton Ridge, the 1977-78 schedule will include two of the best teams in the area.

Freshman Team Undefeated in CBC League

After a 6-0 loss to New Carlisle, the Northeastern freshman football squad was determined to finish the season successfully. And that is just what they did as they were unscored upon for the remainder of the season. The most exciting game was against Bellefontaine. In the last two minutes, with a score of 0-0, the little Jets punted to Bellefontaine. The Chieftains fumbled the ball and the Jets recovered it gaining 2 points for a safety. The little Jets then got a touchdown winning

Jets Take Off To Fine Season

Requiring much practice many of the Northeastern cross-country runners began conditioning in early fall. Running along barren country roads, training is a lonesome, unappreciative task. Playing a prominent role, the seven outstanding Seniors encouraged enthusiasm, hardwork, and team spirit in the underclassmen.

After a slow start, the Jets gradualy ran their way to a rewarding and winning season. This year's greater competition slightly

Golfers lack experience, but finish strong

This was the final year Northeastern and Kenton Ridge played together. Returning with only two lettermen, the 7-11 record showed the inexperience of the year's team. Even though the team ended the season below .500, they went to the sectional and finished a very respectable seventh out of seventeen teams.

Next year both schools will have their own golf program but each team should have an even number of returning golfers for the new season. Most valuable golfer, Phil Davis, will be returning for Kenton Ridge, while honorary captain Warren Sears will be at Northeastern.

Coach Layfield feels next year's team will be much more improved and experienced.

Jet grapplers fare well

After weeks of hard practice, the Jet grapplers began the year by defeating both West Liberty and South at the first exciting home match.

The team consisted of seven experienced seniors who with the help of many underclassmen secured a well deserved third place in the Central Buckeye Conference. The squad finished by conquering Bellefontaine, Greenon and Urbana but were defeated by Shawnee and London.

Split Seasons Hurt Jet Performanc

The Northeastern Jets Basketball Squad could not quite put things together for a winning season. Split sessions and the snowy weather hampered practices as our athletes worked at their game until the late evening hours. This kind of schedule was very rough but the fighting Jets held their own in several games. Outstanding performances were given by a number of players as some games were lost by only a few points.

Through out the year the spi was very high and the fans attendance gave strong suppor New ways of showing school spi were evident as the starting line

Girls' Basketball Team Shows Potential

For the first time in the history of Northeastern High School, the girls' basketball team made their debut into AAA league competition. Under the coaching of Kathy Hocter, the Reserves compiled a two and nine record, while Connie Platfoot's Varsity Squad finished the season one and eleven. The win loss record cannot possibly depict the hard work, determination and enthusiasm demonstrated by the coaches and athletes involved. The inexperienced teams steadily improved and lost several games by a narrow margin.

Highlights of the 76-77 season include a Varsity and Reserve win

At the AAA tournament game at Wright State University, Northeastern fans saw their team dominate the entire first half, and keep a lead on Fairborn Baker through most of the game. Girls' Track Gets It Together

With a 3-6 record, this is the best season the girls' track team has seen in the three years that it has been a part of the extracurricular activities of Northeastern.

With regrets, six outstanding seniors will be graduating so several of the running events will be in need of new participants. But, since the track program is now begun in the elementary schools the freshman girls show much talent and are capable of helping the team more than before.

Choir Has Busy, But Funfilled Year

The choir began it's busy year with the election of officers. Soon after the elections, a bowling party was held at Victory Lanes. The choir gave a concert in the fall at Rolling Hills, Northridge and South Vieanna. For money-making projects, members performed at various community meetings. Kenton Ridge and Northeastern combined in a bake sale at Shoemaker's, and a Christmas concert, featuring solos by Debbie Baker and Frank Ballard. After the show, everybody celebrated success at Brenda Brown's house. Things slowed down a bit during the energy crisis, but after this brief pause, the choir performed at the County Choral Festival at Greenon and was successful. Another big event was the Spring and Arts Festival with Deb again the featured soloist. Kenton Ridge also held a similiar concert with the band. To wind up the year, the NE group sponsored the 1st annual choir awards and variety show, with awards given to 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th year members. Altogether this year was an enjoyable one for all.

Bands Split, Year Still Great for All

Led by two fine groups of officers, the division of the band this year was no great problem. At the beginning of the year both bands participated as one in several outstanding half-time shows and a hayride at Michelle Phares' house. In January the bands split to have their own Spring and Arts Festival and to march separately at the Catawba and Springfield Memorial Day Parades. The NE band presented awards to band members at a Banquet on May 26. At this banquet the Meditation for the upcoming half-time show.

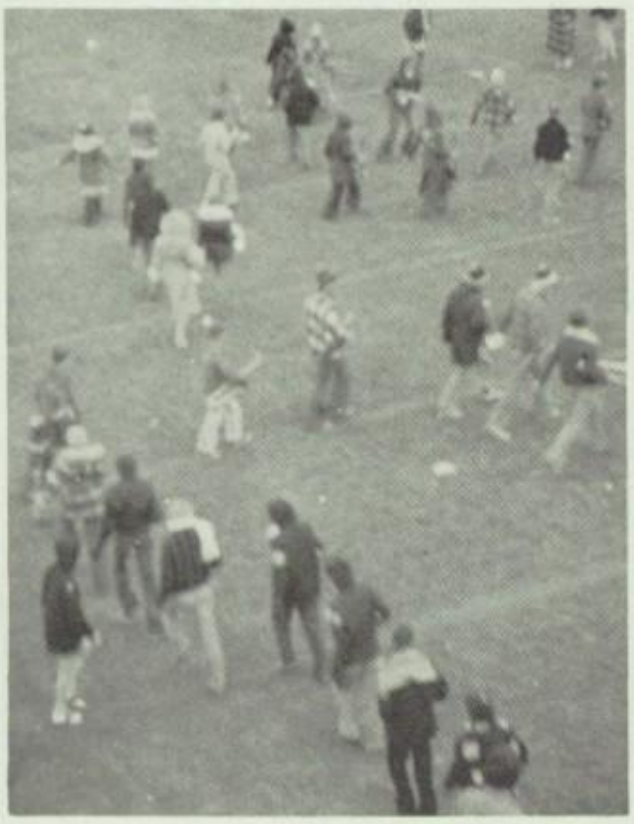
The John Philip Sousa Award was presented to Kim Fippin.

John Philip Sousa Award Reciever was announced, who was Kim Fippin. The trip to Cedar Point was also announced at this banquet. Both NE and KR bands participated in McDonald's Day while KR had their own Kenton Ridge Day at Wendy's to raise money. Also used as money making projects for KR were tree and poinsetta sales. The NE band sold Jet writing pens to increase their bank account. To end the seniors' last year in band, Mr. Driever threw a party at his house as for a last get-together. This year, although the split between schools did occur, was a great year for the band.



Which way is everybody going?

All must suffer, even our leaders.

COMMENCEMENT

June 5, 1977

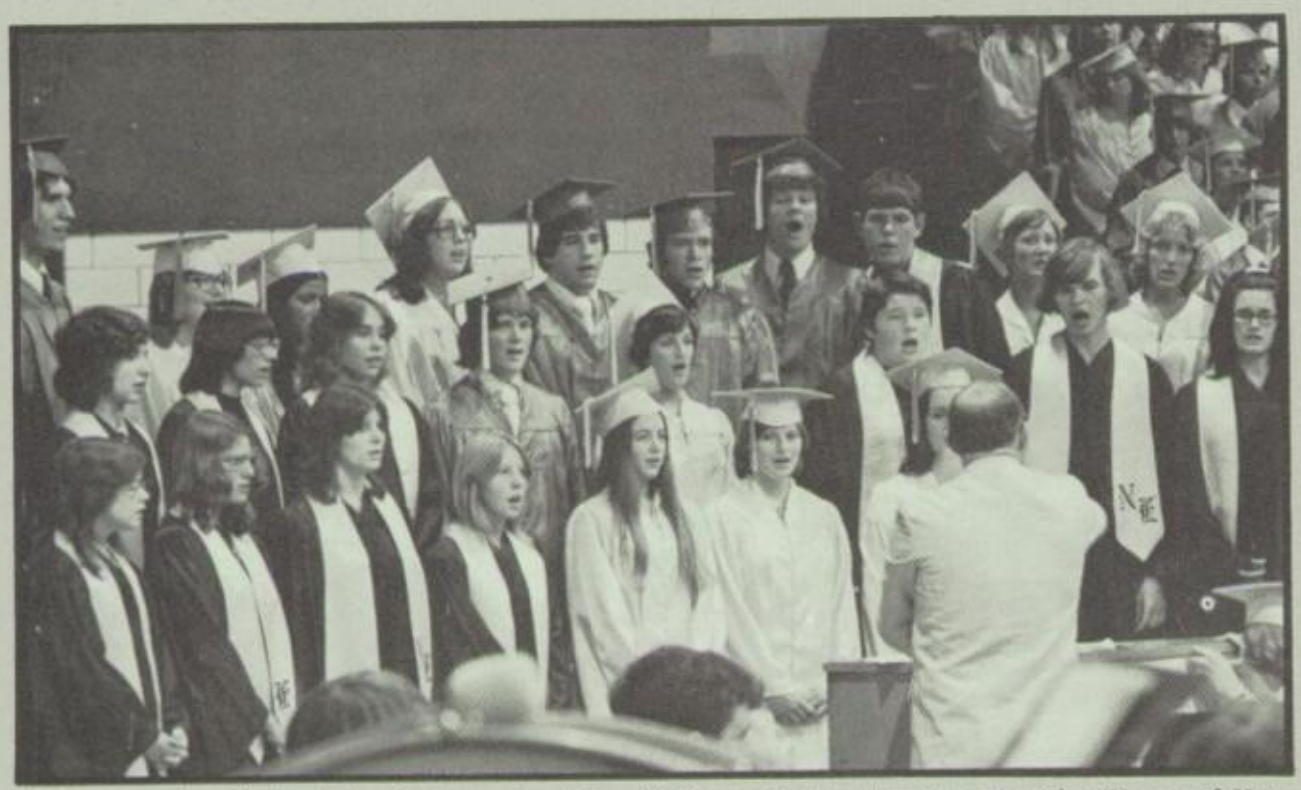
Anxious for commencement to begin, seniors line the halls after donning their caps and gowns.

Brian Cuthrell, Debbi Evans and Eric Grassle reflect upon their school years as they enter the gym.

The solemn processional of graduating seniors file steadily into the bleachers.

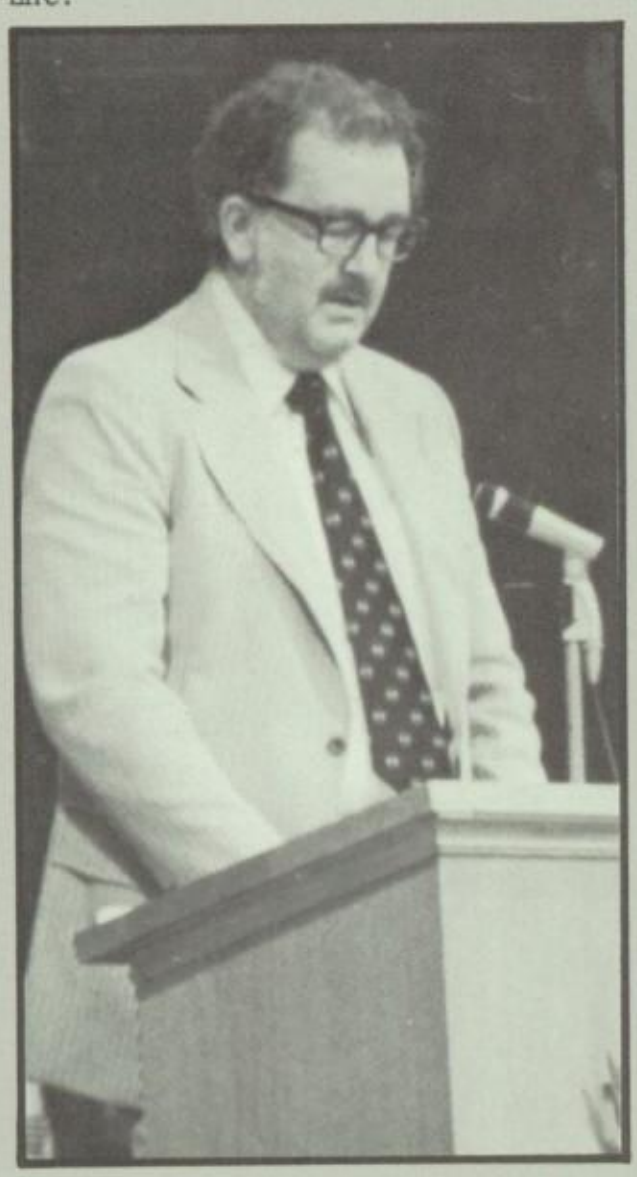
On graduation morning, the seniors awoke to a gloomy sky instead of the sunshine they had anticipated. The rain finally came about 1:00 P.M. and commencement was rescheduled for 8:00 P.M. and moved from the football field to the school gymnasium. Tickets became items of concern as graduates rushed to retrieve them from drawers, waste baskets and pants pockets. Since each senior was allotted only four tickets, many friends and relatives were unable to attend the graduation ceremony.

The time delay and ticket situation was disheartening, but school spirit reigned as 272 seniors gathered for their final evening as classmates. The processional seemed to last forever as Northeastern's largest graduating class crowded into the bleachers. Both the audience and the graduates suffered from the heat as the long list of class members was read. Each graduate proudly received his long-awaited diploma, then bid farewell to his high school days and turned eagerly towards the future.



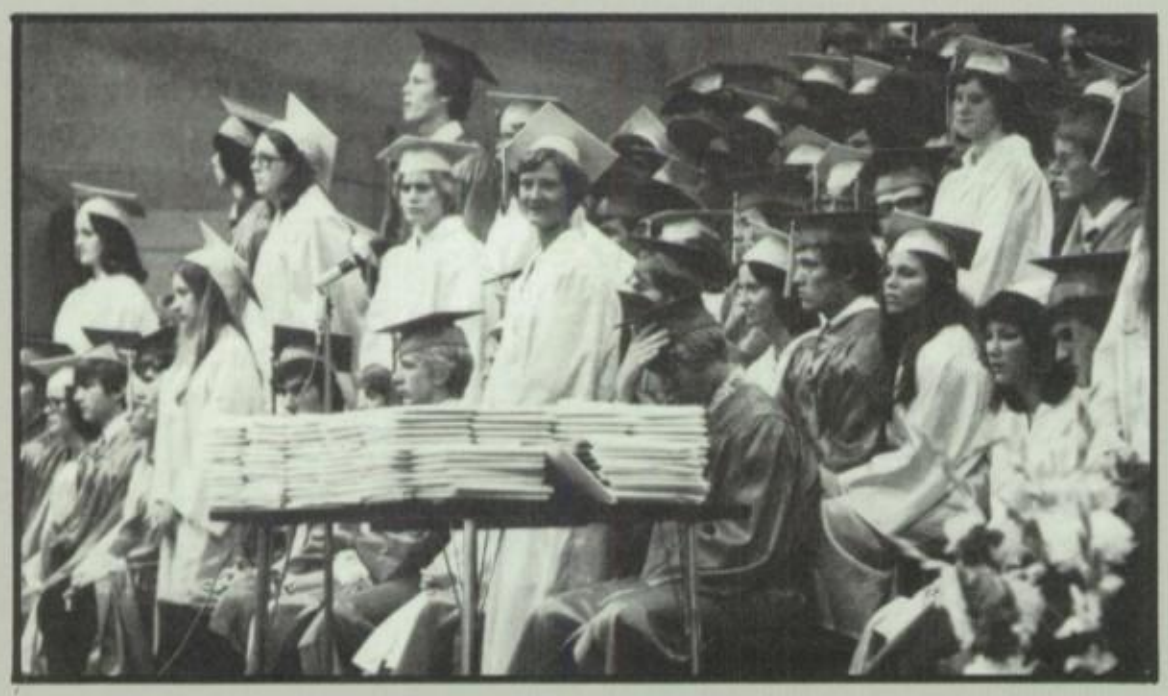
Senior members joined the choir to sing "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "The Times of Your Life."

Rev. Glen Greenwood's Graduation address was entitled "Our Greatest Resources."



Mr. Carl Frazier, asst. superintendent, certifies that all seniors have fulfilled high school requirements.

Carol Foster, Don Hambrick and Marcia Fritts listen to Rev. Greenwood's words of advice.



Honor Students are recognized for their fine academic accomplishments.

Fred Smith steps forward to receive his diploma.

School Board President Edward Silver congratulates Julie Neff.

Superintendent Charles Stephens calls each member of the graduating class forward.

In the stifling gymnasium, seniors watch their classmates receive their diplomas.

Kevin Schwarz proudly accepts his diploma.

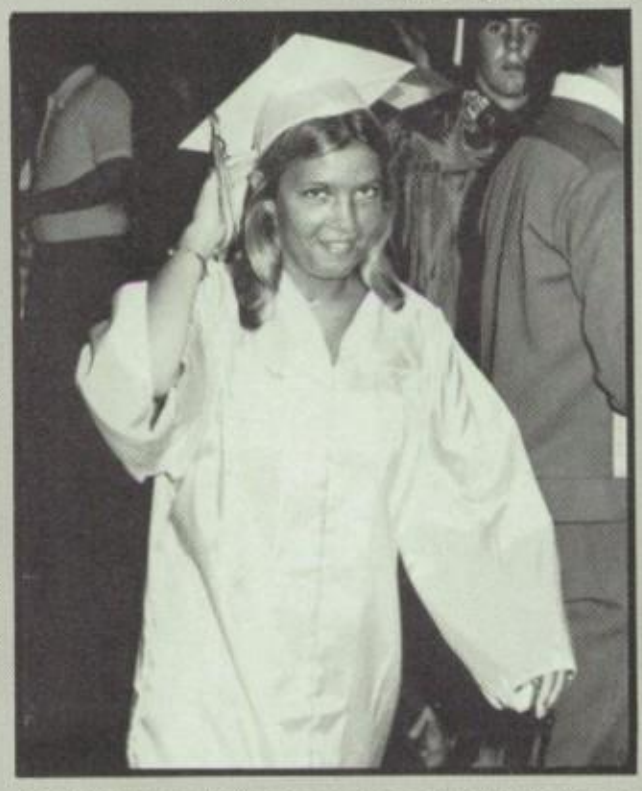
Denise Jacometti, exchange student from Brazil, graduated after completing a semester of studies with the senior class.

Tom Miller and Kelly Scheeler hurry to remove their robes after leaving the stuffy gym.



Cathy Kennedy appears pleased that her senior year is over.

Sandy Lambert hangs up her robe and prepares to return home.

No longer brimming with friends of the graduates, the gym stands deserted, awaiting another senior class in the fall.

Today is the day,

The countdown is on.

Today is the day,

I'll soon be gone.

I walk down the hall

And the faces I see,

Will soon be nothing more

Than a fond memory.

Holidays and yesterdays

Add up to years.

Hopes and aspirations

Shimmer in tears.

So many people

I don't want to forget,

So many actions

I'll live to regret.

Where I've been.

I've not much to show.

Where I'm going,

I really don't know.

Don't cry for me,

I've got to move on.

Today is the day,

I'll soon be gone.

What Next?

This year seemed so special and different because of the numerous adversities Northeastern has conquered. Although faced with endless challenges and novel experiences, we have survived. We lived through those first uncertain months of school, gradually becoming accustomed to the sometimes hectic schedule. The rooms, the lockers, and the hallways, which were strange at first, soon became fam iar. For the first time in sev years, lunch periods were appre ated as a break in the day. could study, eat, talk with friend make up tests or participate intramural basketball and volle ball tournaments.

When Kenton Ridge students fi attended the new building in January, they found additional problems which tested their flexibility. A shortage of chairs and desks caused difficulties in conducting classes and students soon learned not to go up the down staircases.

We all suffered through the energy-depleted winter, month-long school closings, freezing classrooms and a springtime epidemic of the measles. We watched as the Jets struggled through a difficult athletic schedule. The win-loss records cannot possibly convey the hard work and devoted support of the athletes and fans when faced with discouraging odds.

Above all, we have seen the intimate bond between Northeastern and Kenton Ridge slowly dissolve as loyalties became divided. We have survived the school split. We have crossed many new bridges and tackled numerous difficulties but we are not finished. The future still holds insecurities for us all - the ones who are leaving and those who remain behind.

TELEDYNE OHIOCAST

Consider Teledyne Ohiocast as a prime source for centrifugally cast tubes of heat and corrosion resistant alloys. Alloys can be furnished in accordance with ASTM specifications: CF8, CF8M, HH, HK, HT, and others. Teledyne Ohiocast also furnishes Ohioloy 2300 Super Alloy, offering high temperature oxidation resistance with excellent creep strength properties, which permits engineers to design for use up to 2300F. In addition, Teledyne Ohiocast provides alloys made to meet specific customer specifications. Also, cast fittings can be supplied with all Ohiocast centrifugally cast alloy tubes. Write for information today on standard grade alloys, Ohioloy 2300, or other specific alloys. Teledyne Ohiocast, Springfield, Ohio 45502.
